

IQVIA Trial Manager

Plan, manage and follow-up on clinical trials in one solution

Efficiency in running clinical studies requires insight and access to information from all study sites and involved departments.

Overview on all levels

IQVIA Trial Manager provides a quick study overview on all levels and helps solve payment reconciliation. It gives project nurses the information they need to be efficient such as an overview of outstanding tasks and participants in clinical trials.

The result is higher study efficiency, faster onboarding of new staff, and an improved financial situation.

Our new easy to use Trial Manager solution targets a number of key roles. All roles have been deeply involved in designing the solution.

Management of an association of hospitals needs to know the activity level across hospitals and attract new studies.

Hospital Management needs to approve study commencing, ensure progress and establish a solid financial base.

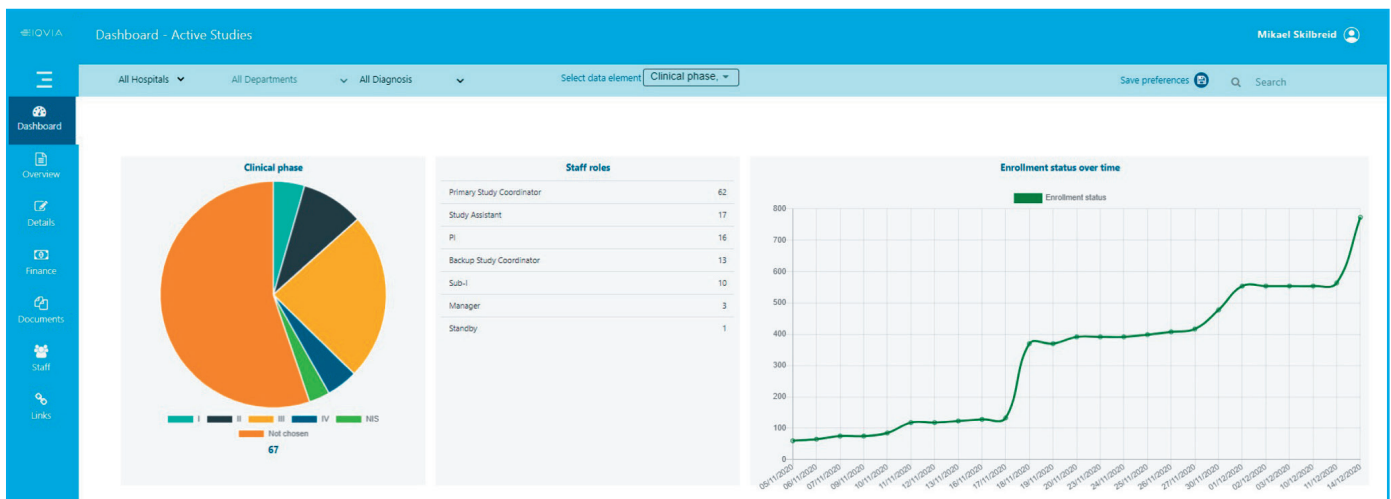

Investigators and ward nurses need to ensure efficiently executed studies and a full overview of status, progress and financials.

Nurses and other study participants need to get an instant study overview to know next step, outstanding tasks etc.

To establish an overview is critical in ongoing projects, but it also improves the planning capacity, as management and investigators can tell what the pipeline of upcoming studies look like.

All in all, IQVIA Trial manager supports the needs of several stakeholders. The solution also benefits patients, who will directly benefit from doctors having a broader and more comprehensive overview.

The dashboard provides information that allows overview and efficiency in planning such as number of clinical trials, type of clinical trial, staff allocation, patient enrollment and much more.

IQVIA TRIAL MANAGER FACTS

- A software solution that supports the clinical research staff in the daily operation and deliver management information.
- IQVIA Trial Manager offers a structured way of handling the financial side of research studies as well as bringing forward essential trial documents and supporting applications.
- The solution is immediately a solid business case as it supports investigators in negotiating a solid sponsor contract and afterwards secures reimbursement for all activities agreed upon the contract.

“It is important for us to have an overview of all clinical trials in the Region. Clinical Trial Manager has given us this – and more. The solution supports a good collaboration with the pharma industry, as it allows us to find the most suitable sites and optimize capacity, because we have the full overview of trials starting and ending. This has an additional benefit of making Region Zealand attractive for the pharma industry, which again leads to competencies being continuously developed among our healthcare professionals”.
